Your Island Adventure

Your guide to visiting
Scotland's Northern Isles

www.northlinkferries.co.uk

Operated by serco

The Northern Isles are breath-taking and wild, rich in Norse and Scottish history, wildlife, unique folklore, music, poetry and prose. With NorthLink Ferries they're closer than you think.

Discovering the islands has never been easier as NorthLink Ferries operates up to three sailings a day to Orkney and Shetland. Sailings routinely depart from Scrabster (near Thurso) to Stromness in Orkney and there are nightly sailings from Aberdeen to Lerwick in Shetland. Up to four sailings from Aberdeen also travel via Orkney's capital; Kirkwall.

For islanders and visitors alike, NorthLink Ferries provides a luxurious and comfortable service that provides a vital link to and from mainland Scotland. NorthLink's modern passenger vessels are equipped to cater to passengers' needs and on board, travellers can expect a service that is a testament to the islands' warmth and friendliness.

Meals served on board are all prepared using locally-sourced produce, where possible. On board shopping facilities provide passengers with the opportunity to purchase a keepsake from their visit or a gift for a family member or friend. All ships include plenty of activities to keep the children entertained; including the Viking's Den which has a range of activities for children of all ages to enjoy.

NorthLink Ferries prides itself on making journeys as comfortable as possible. Passengers can choose from various sleeping options, including two, three and four berth en-suite cabins, sleeping pods and reclining seats. Shower facilities are also available on-board to ensure you reach your destination refreshed and rejuvenated.

A range of accessible facilities are available to allow easy access for all passengers. These include specially designed cabins, accessible toilets, wheelchair access and boarding assistance and Changing Places.

Whether you are exploring all of Scotland's wonderful wilderness or discovering the Northern Isles for the first time, get in touch by calling the call centre on 0845 6000 449, visiting www.northlinkferries.co.uk or download the mobile app to plan and book your trip, find further information and learn more about the services offered by NorthLink Ferries.

North Coast 500

For those whose dream break includes exploration and discovery, Orkney is within touching distance of Scotland's answer to Route 66 – North Coast 500. Whether you are exploring this scenic circular route around the Highlands on two wheels or four, Orkney is just a short crossing from Scrabster allowing you to spend some time taking in all that island life has to offer, before heading back to Mainland Scotland to continue your tour of the Highlands.

To make the most of your trip to either Orkney or Shetland, visit the website or get in touch with our contact centre team for further inspiration and inspiring itinerary ideas.

NorthLink Ferries operate five ships, three passenger vessels - MV Hjaltland and MV Hrossey serving Kirkwall and Lerwick, whilst MV Hamnavoe sails on the Pentland Firth between Scrabster and Stromness. Two freight ships, MV Hildasay and MV Helliar, serve Aberdeen, Kirkwall and Lerwick and carry passengers also.

Travelling from Aberdeen

Aberdeen is well connected to the rest of Scotland and the UK by road, air and rail. The ferry terminal is conveniently located in the heart of the city, close to the rail and bus stations at Union Square.

NorthLink Ferries has partnered with bus operator, Stagecoach, to offer passengers an onward bus – the 727 Jet Bus – to Aberdeen International Airport. The service operates Monday to Friday, departing the Ferry Terminal at 07:42 and arriving at the Airport at 08:34. On Saturday and Sunday, it leaves at 07:20 and arrives at 08:02. For the full timetable go to www.northlinkferries.co.uk

...to Lerwick

NorthLink Ferries operates a daily service to Lerwick, leaving Aberdeen in the evening and arriving at 07:30 the following morning in Shetland's capital.

...to Kirkwall

NorthLink Ferries also operate a direct link to Orkney from Aberdeen. The service to Kirkwall departs on a Tuesday*, Thursday, Saturday and Sunday evening, calling into Kirkwall at 23:00 before departing for Lerwick.

Travelling from Scrabster

Scrabster is in the far north of Mainland Scotland near Thurso in Caithness. There are road, rail and bus links to Thurso from Inverness, which is well connected to the rest of Scotland.

...to Stromness

NorthLink Ferries operate a 90-minute crossing three times a day in the peak period between Scrabster and Stromness. During off-peak periods and at weekends there are two return crossings a day. Take MV Hamnavoe to Orkney to enjoy the spectacular view of the famous sea stack, the Old Man of Hoy, and the red sandstone cliffs of St John's Head.

Average travel distances/times by car:

Glasgow (146 miles) / Edinburgh (126 miles) to Aberdeen

Explore the Orkney Islands

With green rolling fields bordered by huge seascapes, Orkney has an incredible allure and huge range of attractions. Visitors can enjoy extraordinary remains of villages, stone circles and tombs and the sunken fleet at Scapa Flow whilst sampling award winning food and drink. An abundance of entertainment and activities on offer include festivals and shows, island-hopping, golf at midnight, traditional music and crafts and of course spectacular wildlife watching.

The Old Man of Hoy

Standing at 449ft, The Old Man of Hoy is one of Orkney's best-known landmarks. The iconic red sandstone stack is over 200 years old and popular amongst climbers due to its challenging environment. The stack can be seen when sailing on MV Hamnavoe, the only ferry to sail past the Old Man of Hoy.

The Churchill Barriers

Linking the mainland of Orkney to the South Isles, the Churchill Barriers were built in 1940 as naval defences following the sinking of the Royal Oak. Reaching almost two kilometres in length, the four causeways now serve as road links, carrying the A961 road from Kirkwall to Burwick.

Skara Brae

Discovered under a sand dune after a windstorm in 1850, Skara Brae is a settlement of ten clustered houses which were occupied over 5,000 years ago. The stone-built furniture has been perfectly preserved in the sand; cupboards, beds and boxes are all intact. Older than the pyramids - Skara Brae is one of the must-see attractions of Orkney, offering an amazing glimpse into Neolithic life.

The Italian Chapel

Built in 1943 by Italian prisoners of war (who were working at the time on The Churchill Barriers), the Italian chapel was built out of two Nissen huts, concrete and scrap metal. The tabernacle was made from wood obtained from a wrecked ship and the light holders made out of corned beef tins. The interior was exquisitely painted by Domenico Chiochetti, a gifted painter from Moena, Italy.

Standing Stones of Stenness and the Ring of Brodgar

The Standing Stones of Stenness and the Ring of Brodgar are two very different sets of Neolithic standing stones, three quarters of a mile apart in the West Mainland of Orkney. The four Standing Stones of Stenness are monstrously tall at five metres high and were erected 5,000 years ago. The Ring of Brodgar is a larger yet younger ring of 30 standing stones, which may have been built to accommodate more people. The purpose of both are unknown, but just as churches today are used for various events, it is likely that the stone circles served a number of roles.

Discover the Shetland Islands

Shetland is a place of drama. "Nature" wrote one visitor, "appears in her wildest dress" in these, Britain's most northerly islands, and it is indeed the wildness and grandeur of the Shetland landscapes and seascapes which inevitably become visitors' most enduring memory.

There are more than 100 islands here, each forged by the roaring surging waves of the North Atlantic. Everywhere one goes, there are dramatic cliffs, perfect deserted beaches, huge vistas across awe-inspiring voes and inlets, and above, the cry of seabirds.

Jarlshof

An impressive archaeological site which was occupied for millennia. Excavation proved to be rather difficult, as the site is layered, with later generations of dwellers building on top of previous houses and reusing materials. Remarkable survivors of this site include Neolithic pottery, round houses and an Iron Age broch built close to the shore. Pictish influences can be seen, and there are seven Norse houses. Jarlshof has a longhouse, several outbuildings for sheltering domesticated animals and a sauna from Viking times. On top of it all sits a medieval house. Jarlshof is a superb place to learn about the history of Shetland.

Sumburgh Head

Sumburgh Head is a 100m high cliff at the southern tip of the Shetland Mainland. Tidal streams from the east and west meet here, and the mixing of water provides food for seabirds and whales. As a result, Sumburgh is an RSPB reserve noted as an excellent place to see puffins (from May to July). Humpback, Killer and Minke whales can sometimes be spotted from the cliff top in summer. The lighthouse has recently been converted into a great visitor's centre where you can learn about Shetland's birdlife and marine life, and the history and mechanics of running a lighthouse.

Scalloway Castle

Built in 1599 and occupied for only a short time, Scalloway Castle is a great place to explore. From the main hall to the dungeon, each room has a wealth of history that visitors can learn about as they wander.

Up Helly Aa

Up Helly Aa is on the last Tuesday of January. A procession of 1,000 men with flaming torches, led by the Viking Jarl Squad, circle and set fire to a Viking Galley! For those that don't manage to make the event itself, the Galley Shed exhibition in Lerwick provides a plethora of information about this thrilling festival.

St Ninian's Isle

St Ninian's Isle is joined to the Shetland mainland at Bigton by a beautiful sandy tombolo or spit, the largest in the United Kingdom. St Ninian's Isle has featured twice in the BBC's Shetland series.

Services On Board: Scrabster - Stromness

Served by MV Hamnavoe, the 90-minute Scrabster to Stromness route is the only sailing to Orkney to travel past the iconic Old Man of Hoy and St John's Head landmarks.

These sailings offer a range of onboard facilities including the Feast Restaurant, Magnus' Lounge and the Northern Isles gift shop selling local newspapers, snacks, gifts, books, fragrances and travel products.

The Viking's Den is a great dedicated play area for children to enjoy fancy dress costumes, children's cartoons, books and colouring pads.

Enjoying a children's meal

MV Hamnavoe Magnus' Lounge

Food and Drink

A three-course meal can be pre-booked for a special rate of £17.25, or purchased individually on board. Children can choose from a variety of meals priced at £5.25 and served in a NorthLink Ferry boat with potatoes or chips, Strathmore water or milk, Walls Calippo or a piece of fruit.

Passengers can enjoy a variety of delicious freshly prepared meals, using locally sourced produce in the onboard Feast restaurant. For £9.95, adults can enjoy an all-inclusive breakfast or a continental breakfast is available for £6.95. For every adult breakfast purchased, up to two children (under 16) can eat breakfast for free.

Magnus' Lounge

Magnus' Lounge on MV Hamnavoe offers the perfect space to work or unwind. For just £7.50 you will receive complimentary tea, coffee, soft drinks, nibbles, newspapers and magazines. On morning sailings hot filled rolls are on offer and during afternoon sailings, passengers can relax with a complimentary drink. Main meals are also available to purchase in Magnus' Lounge.

Entertainment

Passengers are able to download and enjoy a selection of newspapers and magazines directly on their smartphone or tablet. Passengers can download the PressReader app from the Google Play, Apple App Store or Kindle App Store; whilst you relax on board you will be able to access a wide library of news and lifestyle publications.

Bed & Breakfast

The Hamnavoe bed & breakfast offer is a great way to get a good night's sleep before departing from Stromness on the 06:30 or 09:00 sailing. Passengers can board the ship between 21:30 and 23:30 and enjoy a drink or a complimentary snack in the comfortable setting of Magnus' Lounge.

MV Hamnavoe features 16 cabins, each with two or four berths and en-suite facilities. Accessible Cabins are also available with two and three berth options.

Cabins come with premium linens and towels, Shetland wool blankets, satellite TV and tea and coffee-making facilities. Those staying in a Premium cabin also receive complimentary bottled water, Mirrie Dancers chocolates, Caithness Shortbread and local newspapers, as well as access to Magnus' Lounge for the morning sailing. Cots and bed rails for infants and children are available on request.

Two all-inclusive Scottish breakfasts are included in this offer which is priced from £41 per cabin.
